6 Months Rotations in General Medicine and Surgery.

The six-month rotations in General Medicine and Surgery provided me with valuable and diverse experiences in the medical field. During my time in General Medicine, I worked closely with a team of dedicated healthcare professionals to diagnose and treat a wide range of medical conditions. I gained hands-on experience in conducting thorough patient assessments, interpreting diagnostic tests, and formulating effective treatment plans. This rotation exposed me to various medical specialties, allowing me to develop a comprehensive understanding of the interconnectedness of different organ systems and their impact on overall health.

3 Months Rotation in Gastroenterology.

During my three-month rotation in Gastroenterology, I had the invaluable opportunity to immerse myself in the fascinating world of digestive health. Under the guidance of experienced gastroenterologists, I gained a comprehensive understanding of various gastrointestinal disorders and diagnostic techniques.

3 Months Rotation in Orthopaedics.

During my three-month rotation in Orthopaedics, I gained invaluable hands-on experience and knowledge in this specialized field of medical. Working closely with orthopedic surgeons, nurses, and other healthcare professionals, I had the opportunity to observe and participate in a wide range of orthopedic procedures and treatments. I learned to assess and diagnose various musculoskeletal conditions, including fractures, joint disorders, and sports injuries.

1 Month Medical ICU.

During my one-month experience in the ICU (Intensive Care Unit), I gained invaluable insights into the critical and demanding nature of healthcare. Working alongside a dedicated team of doctors and nurses, I witnessed firsthand the complexity and urgency involved in providing intensive care to patients with life-threatening conditions. I quickly adapted to the fast-paced environment, learning to prioritize tasks and make critical decisions under pressure.
